SIMULATED RISK MANAGEMENT TRAINING

Someone will die from a workplace incident today! Sixteen serious injuries will occur in the next hour. Nine out of ten workplace incidents will be caused by human error. The consequences for businesses that are not managing this risk are enormous, but modifying human behaviour in the workplace has always been difficult to achieve through conventional training. Now there is SIM Court... an experience you won't forget!

WHAT IS INVOLVED:

SIM Court begins with a presentation on the fundamentals of risk management, which is followed by a brief introduction to the process of litigation. The consultants prepare participants for the simulated content by highlighting the relevant key concepts.

When the core presentation commences, participants observe a simulated prosecution which is based on an agreed factual scenario. The simulation recreates a snap shot of the type of litigation which could follow any breach of health, safety or environmental risk management legislation. During this part of the training participants witness first hand how devastating the aftermath of a risk management failure can be to the individual - not just to the business.

The training concludes with an interactive session during which consultants assist participants to reflect on the content and outcomes.

WHAT RESOURCES ARE REQUIRED:

The standard training package runs for about 3 hours - but this can be tailored. Our consultants can organise the facilities and materials, or liaise with you to make the necessary arrangements. SIM Court will require up to five participants to play various roles during the presentation.

WHY SIM COURT IS SO EFFECTIVE:

SIM Court is superior to conventional training because it:

- is interesting, entertaining and has an interactive format that captures and retains the attention of participants,
- has a unique ability to demonstrate the practical purpose of risk management procedures and to powerfully reveal the harrowing consequences of a failure to follow those procedures,
- is capable of breaking down tolerance to 'compliance' messages, and persuading even the most sceptical participants that a risk management failure can have lasting personal and professional effects, and
- is a versatile training tool that is relevant for personnel at all levels from the most junior trainees up to directors.

THE INVESTMENT:

SIM Court is available at highly competitive rates and includes consultation, development, preparation and presentation. With the potential costs of a compliance failure running into millions we believe you will discover that this lasting training investment is real value for money.
